> From the Philadelphia Bulletin. HOOPS.

BY A. COOPER. Etoops on barrols, kegs and pails,
Moops on boxes, tube and baies,
Are articles indispersable—
But heops as they puff out woman's dress,
Making the woman look so much less,
Are things most indefensible.

Hoops, when their sturdy clasp confines, En brown old casks the richest wines, Are eldects of admiration-But hoops as part of woman's baggage, Are like the whoops of a painted savage, A vile abomination.

Floors make useful, pretty toys, For active little girls and boys,
But hoops on woman gentle,
Are things to succer at and to scoff,
And like the whoop of a whooping cough,
Neither useful nor ornamental.

For white dear woman bones her skirts, And with a skeleton flaunts and fires. She has so much to carry, Man finds it hard with her to talk, And harder still to sit or walk , But hardest of all to marry.

For when a emitten wretch has seen Among the lost in crinoline, The one his heart holds dearer, Oh! what a chill to ardent passion. To feel that thro' this hollow fashion He never can be nearer!

That instead of timidly drawing near, And pouring into the thrilling car The flood of his soul's devotion. He must stand and bellow in thunder tones, Across half an acre of skirts and bones, As if hailing a ship on the ocean.

And if by chance the maid of his choice, Shall faintly hear her lover's voice, And smile her consescension-Why he explures a mass of hoops and rings, Skeletons, bence, and other things, Too horrible to mention.

Thus lovely woman koops to folly, And drives poor man to inclancholy, By her great frigid zones; Then let her hear a warning voice, Between her hoops and hopes make choice, And give the dogs her benes.

The argumentative and elaborate escays delivered by the principal leaders of parties prove that the mass of the populaof parties prove that the mass of the population desire to be assisted in ferming an opinion on the questions at issue. The hustings speeches at an English general election are speeches at an English general election are shallower, less dignified, and less respectful to the audience, than the analogous effort of influential American politicians. The whole question is exhausted by the speeches of Mr. Hunter on behalf of the Democrats, and of Mr. Banks, the Republican Speaker of the House of Representatives; but many other eminent orators have made displays not less successful. A nation which can be reasoned with during the most violent fits of excitement deserves to govern itself; and it is a relief to turn from the cant and sophistry of Continental Europe to a country where men cheaply buy the right to say what they think Bourbon, Rye, Monongahela & Rectified Whisky, at the cost of yielding to an occasional temptation to say something more.
